```
First HTML Document</H1>
by you
<blinking>November 6-7, 2006
<blinking>
<hr>
<h3 align="center">HTML Is Not Difficult</h3>
Dear Dr. Data:
 This is a lot of fun creating my first HTML document. The instructions were very good. Thank you Dr. Data for teaching something brand-new that I will be able to use for the rest of my life.
Learning how to use HTML tags may be a bit confusing but if you type them one line at a time, it is possible learn quickly. And when I make mistakes, it is easy to correct when typing only one line at a time.
Again, thank you Dr. Data for introducing me to the world the HTMl programming language. What's makes HTMl so special is that the HTML document appears the same way on a Macintosh computer and on a PC computer over the Internet.
<marquee>Thank you again Dr. Data. Must be in Internet Explorer to see this marquee movement.</marquee>
<blinking>Thank you again Dr. Data. Must be in Mozilla FireFox to see thisi marquee movement.</blinking>
<blinking>Till next time,</blinking>
<blinking></blinking>
<blinking>Your Devoted Student (use your name) </blinking>
```